LONG BRANCH, September 10.—If the president has gained anything today it has been one nearly counterbalanced by annoyances of changing weather and other local causes that he cannot to-night be said to be better than yesterday. The day was certainly begun unfavorably. It is stated by one who frequents the sick room that one time during the night the feverish rise carried the pulse to 120. Attending physicians admit that fever rose rather

HIGHER THAN USUAL, at least it was more noticeable because it came on later in the night.
His rest was fairly good nevertheless, and while disturbance left no alarming traces and subsided in reasonable time it had considerable effect on his condition at the time the morning bulletin was issued, and hence the day was badly started.

THE HEAVY RAIN of the morning necessitated a glowing fire in the sick room. Subsequently an hour or so of sunshine allowing the windows to be opened again, but the return of rain necessitated a return to close quarters and consequent disappointment to the patient. As one of his attendants stated this afternoon, "He saw the president for a few moments. He did not suit him, and no gloomy patient has a good day." During the forenoon, however, the pulse and temperature subsided to the standard of the past few days, and so remained up to the time of the evening examination. Several of the physicians have said for a long time that even when the president began to mend it would be better than his predecessor. There would be good days and also days that were not so good. This seems to have been one of the latter kind. No one has lost hope, but there has been no ground for increased faith during the morning.

SECRETARY WISDOM
stated afterwards that the patient was no worse than he had expected to see him, and that his voice sounded quite natural. The secretary spoke only a few words with him, merely exchange-ing greetings and assuring him that there was nothing in the treasury department that demanded his attention at present. There is ABSOLUTELY NO TRUTH in stories current during the day that the president was no better than yesterday; that he merely held his own; that the air was heavy, moist and chilly, and that it had the effect of depressing his mind, rendering him spiritless and dull. Such stories have been telegraphed. There is no foundation for any of them. They are entirely untrue and are wholly at variance with the real facts. Nothing that attending surgeons have said could by any possibility have furnished any basis for such stories. The air has been cool and bracing and had a noticeable invigorating effect on the president. He has been cheerful and unusually bright. He improved all last night, and continued to improve all day to-day, and his condition to-night is one of steady improvement. He slept better last night than he has since his removal and better than for some time before he left Washington. He partakes of food in increasing quantities and with increasing relish. He has during the day taken and relished between three and four ounces of peptonized beef (that is beef prepared for digestion), gruel, milk toast, three raw birds; two of these he ate in shape of hash, eating the fibre, and the third he ate whole, taking the bird in his fingers, eating it suit himself and

PICKING THE BONES
clean. All this food he enjoyed and retained, all better than formerly.
There is every indication that he has assimilated all this food and, even better, that the food so assimilated has gone well into its intended work of adding to his stamina, and has materially assisted in the building up or recooperative process.

Surgeon J. J. Woodward and Dr.
Reynolds from the corps of physicians attending upon President Garfield, which, if allowed to pass uncontroled, is calculated to reflect injuriously upon the character of these gentlemen.

I wish to make the following publication: It is stated that on the Saturday preceding the removal of the president to Long Branch the president communicated to Dr. Bliss the wish that Dr. Barnes, Woodward and Reynolds should not go with him to Long Branch; that on this information being conveyed they were reluctant to be left behind, and, in order to adjust the matter, they appealed to Dr. Agnew, who effected a compromise by which Dr. Barnes, Woodward and Reynolds were to accompany him to Long Branch, and that their connection with the case should cease. In answer to these statements I beg leave to say that I am ignorant of any such transactions, and certain I was never asked to act as referee in the settlement of any question of the kind. No one knowing the high personal and professional character of the three gentlemen in question could at one moment do them the great injustice to believe that they would desire to continue their connection with the case, after receiving information purported to have been made.

(Signed) D. H. AGNEW.
Dr. Bliss denies that it is intended to perform any operation on the president while Dr. Agnew is here this time. He says such a thing has not been thought of, and that the president is not in a condition to undergo an operation, and it would not be made if contemplated without due notice and unless all the attending surgeons were present.

AT MIDNIGHT
the president's favorable condition reported is still continuing, and there is a probability of his passing a good night. Postmaster General James, Secretary Barnes, Lincoln and Windom, with their families, will leave here on Tuesday next if the president continues to improve. They will go to the Twin Mountain house if the condition of the president warrants it.
Secretary Barnes and family will accompany them. The party will stay in the White Mountains eight or ten days and return to Long Branch.

G. P. M. BULLETIN.
ELBERON, N. J., September 10.— At the examination of the president at 12 to-day his temperature was 98.5, pulse 100, respiration 18. At 5:30 this evening his temperature was 98.7, pulse 100, respiration 18. The president has taken a greater amount of liquid nourishment, with some solid food, and with more relish than for several days. His condition is quite as favorable as yesterday.

YESTERDAY'S ACCOUNT.
National Associated Press.
BULLETIN—8:30 A. M.
ELBERON, September 11.—At the examination of the president this morning his temperature was 98.8, pulse 104, respiration 19. He was more restless, and the feverish rise was later than on the preceding night. He continued to take sufficient nourishment without gastric disturbance.

NOON BULLETIN.
ELBERON, September 11.—The weather this morning was delightful, being clear, sunny, cool and breezy.
The president continued to improve, and his pulse at this hour is from 95 to 98. Pulse and respiration normal.
The high pulse of the morning bulletin was due to the effects of the daily febrile rise, which, having lately been occurring at a later hour each day, began so late an hour last night as to have extended over the period of this morning's examination. The president partook of the necessary amount of liquid and solid food by the mouth, and no enemata are now given.

G. P. M. BULLETIN.
ELBERON, Sept. 11.—The president passed a quiet day, though the temperature has been somewhat higher, and his pulse more frequent than during the previous twenty-four hours. At the evening dressing quite a large amount of connective tissue was removed from the region of the parotid. He continues to take a sufficient quantity of nourishment and enjoys it. At the noon examination the temperature was 100, pulse 110.
At the evening dressing his temperature was 102.6, pulse 110, respiration 20.

The official bulletin, when posted, caused a sensation in hotels and cafes at Long Branch. Its entire character was a surprise. People read it over many times before finally accepting it as an official description of the president's condition at the beginning of the eleventh week of his illness. All unofficial reports during the day had been so favorable people were sure of a favorable bulletin this evening.
Not more than twenty minutes before the official bulletin was given out some of the immediate

ATTENDANTS UPON THE PRESIDENT publicly said there was every reason to believe that the examination then going on would result in a most favorable bulletin. Dr. Agnew, however, declined to be interviewed, or to make any extended explanation of the bulletin. What he did say, however, was in a full meaning, rather a favorable view of the situation. He would not say the president had really gained anything since yesterday. He was willing to be quoted as stating that

HE HAD LOST NOTHING, absolutely held his own. This, the doctor explained, was not to be understood as a statement. Though the president's condition had remained nearly stationary, it would bear a more favorable construction than that ever since the president was shot he had relapsed more or less depression on every Saturday or Sunday. At these relapses the president usually sank below the condition he held immediately preceding the relapse, and generally had very marked rise in pulse, temperature and respiration. During the present Saturday and Sunday he had suffered no such relapse. To-night he was in the condition of a man who had held himself over Sunday in the condition he was Saturday, which was favorable and better than that of Friday, when he was and had been improving. That being the fact, the statement that he held his own; that he

HAD NO RELAPSE; had not slipped back; had passed the weekly period of relapse in safety, meant something better than that the case was stationary. To have held his own over such a period was indeed a gain, and might be accepted as favorable. Dr. Agnew concluded by saying: "This is mostly one of those little things."

TEMPORARY FLUCTUATIONS
and there is nothing serious about it.
Also you can say that there is nothing serious about it."

ATTORNEY GENERAL MACVEACH said: "Of course this evening's bulletin will cause anxiety among the people, but really there is nothing in the present condition of the president to cause alarm. High figures will be satisfactorily explained by the physicians and shown to be due to temporary disturbances. If something far more serious than anything which appears in the bulletin had occurred to-day, we should not even then have been alarmed."

THIS IS SUNDAY and every Sunday since the president was wounded he has had disturbances, and if one should have come to-day it would not have been surprising; but none did come, and this slight temporary fluctuation is a mild visitation for the usual periodical trouble; it is really getting through the periodical disturbance day with but little trouble, and should not be considered serious.
The president is actually getting along nicely. He had a quiet day and passed it well. He has been comfortable, bright and cheerful.
I do not believe there is any periodicity in this."

Attorney General MacVeagh was more cheerful, and expressed himself more freely in speaking about what he alone described as the continued favorable condition of the president, than at any time since he has been at Long Branch.

GEN. GRANT AND WIFE have returned to Long Branch, and to-day visited Elberon and inquired about the condition of the president.
He expressed himself as satisfied that the patient was doing well, and even improving. Yesterday the president expressed a desire to see postmaster-general James. To-day the physicians notified the Postmaster-General and he called at Franklyn Cottage this afternoon. The president was asleep at the time, and quietly and sleeping so soundly that the physicians concluded not to awaken him. Mr. James also requested them not.

Edward Chandler Commits Suicide Near Bennett by Throwing Himself Before an Engine.
Special dispatch to THE BEE.
LINCOLN, Neb., September 10.—This morning, three miles from Bennett, Mr. Edward Chambers committed suicide by throwing himself in front of the engine on the Nebraska railroad. Mr. Chandler was thirty years of age, and has a devoted wife in Indiana. He was, until a week ago, in the employ of Messrs.
J. B. Trickey & Co., of Lincoln, as jeweler, at which time he left them and went on a spree, the result of which was suicide. He was taken to Palmyra on the train, where he died about one hour after being run over. He was talking with the section hands a few minutes before, and they state he appeared like a crazy man.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—The Grand

This is believed to indicate an alliance between the Grand Trunk and and a general cutting of local fares between Chicago and the east is anticipated.

Chief Deputy Waterman Suspend-

CINCINNATI, September 11.—An investigation has been in progress for a few days in the office of collector of customs for this district which resulted in the suspension of Jesse Waterman, chief deputy of the office. It has been the custom of the office to collect freight on goods imported and there is $10,000 of this money short. According to the collector, the office is not responsible, but it passed through Waterman's hands and he was held responsible.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—There is likely to be considerable trouble expected in the new senate against the confirmation of six or seven gentlemen, among them a son of Secretary Hunt, who was recently announced as having passed a successful examination for assistant-paymaster in the navy.
The trouble arises from the fact that about two months ago some seventy-five persons were examined for assistant-paymaster, and they were all duly informed of the result. One of these, who is backed by Senator Cameron, has in his possession an official letter, sent him by the navy department, and the statement added that he passed second out of seventy-five.
The other examination, in which young Hunt was concerned, was held secretly, and Hunt and the other five or six have been recommended for appointment over the heads of those who previously passed and who were entitled to the first vacancies. These

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—A dispatch from Ft. Randall says the transfer of Sitting Bull and his 150 savages from Fort Yates to that place was accomplished yesterday with less trouble than was anticipated. Sitting Bull had said he would not go to Randall, and when about to be taken on board the steamer Gen. Sherman, made some show of resistance, when a soldier picked him up and carried him into the cabin of the steamer. The remainder of the band were driven aboard at the point of the bayonet, and one young buck, nephew of Sitting Bull, was knocked down with the butt of a musket. During the excitement one of the savages murdered her papoose and attempted to commit suicide.

MANCHESTER, N. J., September 10.
—Yesterday's heavy rainfall has done much to extinguish the forest fires, which have been sweeping through the southern New Jersey pines for three weeks past. Fears are entertained that unless there is more rain considerable fires will be kindled anew.
The losses throughout Ocean, Atlantic and Monmouth counties by forest fires will amount to many thousand dollars.
